THE PILL®

THE PILL® is presenting a small but mighty booth of solo works by Apolonia Sokol. The artist was recently featured in the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth's stellar group exhibition "Women Painting Women." The Untitled booth emphasizes Sokol's singular talent, featuring her paintings of queer communities, which are distinctive for their flat, painterly style, evoking the work of Alex Katz.

Sokol's work focuses on identity politics and kinship of alternative communities, with an emphasis on the aesthetics of friendships, as THE PILL® founder and executive director Suela J. Cennet told Artsy. Sokol is a well-known artist in Europe who is approaching a rise in the United States. The artist recently spent time working with Henry Taylor, who even painted her portrait, and is also the subject of a documentary by filmmaker Lea Glob entitled Apolonia, Apolonia (2022).

By the evening of the VIP opening, the booth had nearly sold out (and likely will sell out), with works priced between $8,000 and $35,000.
